

GP TRAINER WORKSHOP

A collaborative approach to student and registrar GP training

Tuesday 7 March 2023

6:30PM – 9PM | Building 5, Level 1 - Collaborative Learning Space, Bond University

Catering will be provided. RSVP Thursday 2 March 2022 and include any dietary requirements.

Are you, or would you like to train medical students and/or registrars?

We will give you the opportunity to connect, share, and discuss ideas and experiences about all the learning opportunities GPs can provide.

"Discover new ways to share your skills and expertise in General Practice".

During the workshop, you will learn about:

- How to create a supportive learning environment for medical students and registrars
- How to personalise learning opportunities and assign responsibilities
- How students and registrars can add value to the practice and overall team
- Tips and tricks you can use as a GP trainer

Followed by:

- Summary for ALL and Q&A session

Facilitators:

Associate Professor Jane Smith - Head of General Practice, Bond University Medical Program

Dr Kylie Vuong - Associate Professor in Primary Care and Academic Lead in General Practice, Griffith University

Dr Justin Coleman - RACGP Senior Regional Medical Educator for Supervisor training in SEQ (to be confirmed)

RACGP CPD points have not been pre-approved for this event, but GPs may use this Workshop as a self-recorded activity.
